EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Alexandria's volunteer fire and rescue service was renewed in January 1986 at the direction of the Alexandria City Council. Under a joint volunteer-city program inaugurated by Alexandria City Manager Vola T. Lawson, both the City of Alexandria Fire Department (AFD) and the Alexandria Volunteer Fire Department (AVFD) coordinate their respective functions as follows:

- AVFD recruits, screens, selects, and assigns the fire and rescue volunteers for participation in the four-level participation program known as "Class A, B, C, or D."
- AFD provides for the testing, processing, training, and outfitting of these volunteers, according to the City of Alexandria procedures for fire and rescue personnel.

During the AVFD Fiscal Year 2000, this program achieved the following accomplishments in the period of October 1999 through September 2000:

- Recruitment, acceptance, and processing of seven volunteer applicants—without regard to race, sex, religion, or age. Distribution of these seven applicants—one firefighter, five rescuers, and two support.
- Training of 19 volunteer firefighters, rescuers, dispatchers, and other volunteers according to the same state and national standards required of Alexandria's career firefighters, emergency rescue technicians, and emergency communications technicians: Firefighter-I (FF-I), Firefighter-II (FF-II), Emergency Medical Technician-Basic (EMT-B), Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR-C), Automated External Defibrillator (AED), Hazardous Materials-I (HMFRA), and Hazardous Materials-II (HMFRO).
- Co-representation in the annual memorial service for all of Alexandria's deceased fire and rescue personnel.

During the past 14 years of this renewed program, AVFD personnel since 1986 have provided the City of Alexandria with a total of 109,440 duty hours, valued to date at over a million dollars ($1,361,214).

1999-2000 ANNUAL REPORT
TO THE
ALEXANDRIA CITY COUNCIL

INTRODUCTION

The Alexandria Volunteer Fire Department (AVFD), established in 1774, incorporated in 1979, hereby presents its 14th Annual Report to the Alexandria City Council, covering the AVFD Fiscal Year 2000 (October 1999 through September 2000).

This Annual Report highlights the 226-year mission, current organization, emergency personnel, and AVFD FY 2000 accomplishments of Alexandria's volunteer fire and rescue program that was inaugurated by Alexandria City Manager Vola T. Lawson in January 1986.

AVFD MISSION

AVFD is a non-profit community service organization chartered by the Commonwealth of Virginia. AVFD provides emergency fire and rescue services alongside Alexandria's career firefighters, medics, dispatchers, and other emergency personnel.

AVFD ORGANIZATION

AVFD governs all volunteer fire and rescue personnel established within the City of Alexandria, according to the AVFD Articles of Incorporation, AVFD Constitution, AVFD By-Laws, and AVFD Regulations. AVFD operates under an executive-line command system in which the AVFD Board of Directors establishes corporate policy which, in turn, is implemented by the AVFD officers and supervisors. AVFD functions through the four divisions and six offices as identified in the following paragraphs.

AVFD OFFICES

1. Executive
2. Administration
3. Finance
4. Chaplaincy
5. Training
6. Personnel

AVFD DIVISIONS

1. Firefighting
2. Emergency Medical Services
3. Communications
4. Canteen

AVFD DIVISIONS

AVFD FIREFIGHTING DIVISION

SUMMARY OF 1999-2000 AVFD ACCOMPLISHMENTS

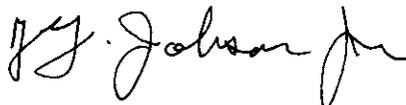

Alexandria Volunteer Fire Department's 30 firefighters, rescuers, dispatchers, and canteen personnel collectively provided 4,943 duty hours of service to the City of Alexandria during the AVFD Fiscal Year 2000 (October 1999 through September 2000).

AVFD's fire and rescue volunteers provided city-trained emergency personnel whose dedicated efforts, valued at $80,840, during AVFD Fiscal Year 2000, noticeably reduced the downtime and unavailability of city personnel and vehicles for public safety incidents and public events:

- Volunteer Firefighters assisted the career firefighters during fire suppression, victim rescue, and major incident dispatching activities—thus freeing the specialty-trained career firefighters for interior firefighting, technical rescue, and other intensive emergency activities.
- Volunteer Rescuers assisted the career emergency rescue technicians during medical emergencies at fires, accidents, hazardous materials incidents, and public exhibitions—thus freeing the specialty-trained career medics for advanced life support and other critical trauma activities.
- Volunteer Dispatchers assisted the career emergency communications technicians at the public safety communications center and at public exhibitions—thus freeing the specialty-trained career communications technicians for inter-agency dispatching and other major incident communications.
- Emergency canteen services were provided by volunteer firefighters, rescuers, and dispatchers—to the career police, fire, and rescue personnel at major public safety incidents, sobriety checkpoints, and public exhibitions.
